

Hi Robi Dear:

Jeri sent this on to me...it is sort of fun...the second one came out in our Ward Bulliten
My son/s a CTR.
I go to PEC.
I work for CES,
I study the TG.
I read the B of M,
I probe the D&C;
I search the KJV,
I ponder the JST.
Today in BYC
We planned for EFY.
I stayed a little after,
And had a PPI.
The YM and YW
Are putting on a play.
It's one that I remember
We did in MIA.
Before our oldest son
Went in the MTC,
He helped the BSA
Complete their SME.
Soon our oldest daughter
Is heading for the Y
Soon our oldest clothing
Is going to DI.
Now, if you've understood
This alphabetic mess,
The chances are quite good
That you are LDS.

NOW THAT'S FUNNY

HOW MANY MORMONS DOES IT TAKE TO CHANGE A LIGHT BULB???

It Depends:

- If it is the Relief Society it takes four. One to fix refreshments, one to bring the table cloth, one to design the centerpiece, and one to screw in the light bulb.
- If it is the Bishopric, forget it, they don't do light bulbs. They call a council meeting and delegate it to the Elders.
- If it is the Elders it takes four. One to screw in the light bulb and three who don't show up.
- If it is the Home Teachers it only takes two, but you have to wait until the end of the month.
- If it is the Young Men or Women it only takes one. They hold the light bulb in the socket and the whole world revolves around them.
