Hello, my Dear Sweet Phillippe, Elder Phillip Edward Larsen,

I thought I would start the email that way today because yesterday when I was at Beverly's for her Open House, I met the husband of my friend, Judith Durant. He is from France, and his name is Phillippe. I told him about you.

I'm so glad Dad wrote so much detail, because I'm heading out the door in a few minutes with the girls to go to YW Camp. I will be there today to cook, and again on Wednesday to help in the kitchen, but I will be there all day, until late in the day. I will look forward to your email when I will get home . . . that will be my treat for today!

I had thought that it would be a quiet week when the girls were gone, to EFY last week, and to YW Camp this week. Not so! I took them up (along with Rachel, thankfully she was the navigator) to EFY on Monday, then picked them up bright and early on Saturday. The week was full of visiting with my friend, Karen, knitting stuff, grocery shopping and other errands, and the start to getting the room ready for Jonathan, and eventually for you. This week I have two days at YW camp, and I'll take Heather to the airport on Thursday for her visit to UT. Plus, we've attended a wedding reception, a couple of open houses, had the missionaries over to give us a message (missionaries are cool guys, you know!), I attended Bishopric Training, and this week is Stake Council Meeting. Oh, and we're taking care of the Potter cats. Lots to do, too much, actually, but I'm trying to enjoy the moment.

I love you, and am so grateful for your testimony and your willingness to serve as a missionary. The gospel is true, Heavenly Father loves you, and Joseph Smith is the Prophet of the Restoration. And isn't it wonderful!

Love,
Mom
