Hello, again, Dear Elder Phillip Larsen,

Just a couple of quick thoughts for this week: this month's Ensign has some wonderful articles. One is on fasting, and says that Isaiah 58 outlines the doctrine of the law of the fast, listing nearly 20 specific blessings for those who are obedient to His law. I read it last night, and I think I'll study Isaiah 58 for a bit.

The other thing is how in studying the Book of Mormon this year, we talked about how it was written for us, for our day, and not for the people of its time. That just really strikes me, how the Lord is so caring and loving of all of us that He would prepare for us the B of M, and the people who wrote it did it for us, under the direction of the Lord, and never ever saw the fruits of their labors, except in visions. One story in this month's Ensign says about learning about the gospel, "I was even more impressed that the new concepts they taught me felt like familiar things I was remembering again."

Just a couple of spiritual thoughts for this week. Love you!

Love,
Mom
